Attention Respondent (Person who the Restraining Order is against):

If you are subject to a Restraining Order, the general orders and notices below apply to you. Even if the other party contacts you, you may be subject to arrest for violating the Restraining Order. You should talk to an attorney if you have any questions.

Restraining Orders (Issued under General Statutes § 46b-15)

An EX PARTE RESTRAINING ORDER is only effective until the date of the hearing unless extended by agreement of the parties, by order of the court for good cause shown, or upon request of the applicant where service has not been made on the respondent. A RESTRAINING ORDER AFTER HEARING stays in effect for one year from the date of the order unless the court orders a shorter period of time. If the court is closed on the scheduled hearing date, the hearing will be held on the next day the court is open and any ex parte order stays in effect until the court holds the hearing. The court may extend this order beyond one year if the applicant files a motion asking the court to extend it.

The terms and conditions on the Order of Protection (form JD-CL-99), and any Additional Orders of Protection (form JD-CL-100), and Orders of Maintenance (form JD-FM-234), also apply to you.
